INTRODUCTION

March 28 is the first meeting to review Council/Municipal performance and the municipal Strategic Priorities for this new Council. This first session is a public meeting which will begin at 10:00.

At this meeting we will review the list of strategic priorities created in 2013, the SWOT analysis and the Council/Municipal report card making a list to circulate for feedback throughout the municipality and with staff.

Pending Council's direction, public consultation through survey, Newsletter article and stakeholder meetings might be considered.

The next step is to consult with staff to prioritize the list for 2015 moving forward using techniques which will determine which items are most important to the most people setting timelines for future action.

The final step of this component is to present the list of priorities to Council at a future meeting for final approval.

Questions for consideration include:

- What, in your mind, are the municipality's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats?
- Where do you see the municipality in 2 years? 5 years? 20 years?
- What can/must we do today to affect that vision?

DEFINITIONS

Strategic planning is a way to identify and move toward desired future states. It is the process of developing and implementing plans to reach goals and objectives.

A good strategy will be:

- capable of obtaining the desired objective;
- a good fit between the external environment and an organizations resources and core competency - It must be feasible and appropriate;
- capable of providing the organization with a sustainable competitive advantage - It should be unique and sustainable;
- dynamic, flexible, and able to adapt to changing situations;
- sufficient on its own - i.e.: valuable without cross-subsidization.

Strategic planning is an organization's process of defining its strategy, or direction, and making decisions on allocating its resources to pursue this strategy. In order to determine the direction of the organization, it is necessary to understand its current position and the possible avenues through which it can pursue a particular course of action. Generally, strategic planning deals with at least one of three key questions:

1. "What do we do?"
2. "For whom do we do it?"
3. "How do we excel?"

In many organizations, this is viewed as a process for determining where an organization is going over the next year or—more typically—3 to 5 years (long term), although some extend their vision to 20 years.

In a true Strategic Planning process, priorities are then linked to the budget, department budgets and ultimately individual performance objectives. Due to the size of our municipality time spent on these activities is more an administrative burden and serves little purpose.

Instead a list of project priorities will direct staff in moving forward. The approved priorities will direct the budget process at a high level but will not trickle down to performance appraisals. Many goals are outside the influence of any one individual in a small municipality and administration such as ours.

A caveat when brainstorming and creating new opportunities for the future of HCM; staff are currently time strapped and have complete work loads. Any new projects or policy direction will require amendments to current staff time demands and/or require changes to staffing levels.

HCM MISSION AND VISION STATEMENTS

HCM Mission: At your service; working effectively to bring together people, partnerships and potential for a strong, connected community.

HCM Vision: Providing a healthy, connected, and sustainable community teeming with possibilities for our citizens now and into the future.

SWOT ANALYSIS

A SWOT Analysis is a strategic planning tool used to evaluate the Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats involved in a project or in a business venture. Strengths and weaknesses are internal to an organization. Opportunities and threats originate from outside the organization. A SWOT analysis, usually performed early in the project development process, helps organizations evaluate the environmental factors and internal situation facing a project.

Strengths and weaknesses are attributes that measure your internal capability. Opportunities and threats refer to how the external environments affect your team/business/group.

Ideally a cross-functional team or a task force that represents a broad range of perspectives should carry out SWOT analyses. For example, a SWOT team may include an accountant, a salesperson, an executive manager, an engineer, and an ombudsman.

Examples of Possible Strengths and Weaknesses

- Experience
- Resources
- Originality
- Customer Service
- Efficiency
- Competitive Advantages

Examples of Possible Opportunities and Threats

- Business Alliances
- New Products and/or Services
- Increasing Market Saturation
- Targeting a New Market Segment
- Locating a New Source of Revenue

Many of these factors could appear listed in several categories. For example, if one's competitors initiate an alliance, this comprises a threat. If one becomes part of such an alliance, this could become an opportunity. If an existing alliance causes problems in a supply chain, one diagnoses a weakness. If one's alliances offer a competitive advantage, this indicates a strength.

SWOT analysis can help in turning weaknesses and threats into opportunities, and ultimately into strengths. The exercise can also identify opportunities that will address weaknesses, and strengths that will counter threats.

STRATEGY DEVELOPMENT

BUDGET EXERCISE – to circulate to citizens

Every year, Council must make difficult choices about funding competing priorities. Funds are needed to maintain those services that resident's value and to address other issues which may arise from time to time.

In this exercise, we'd like to turn the tables. Imagine you are in charge of a budget of $100 for the items listed below. This isn't an exhaustive list of all of the municipality's spending priorities, but it covers many of the most significant ones.

So how would you divide up the $100? In the column on the right, enter the amount you would spend on each item. You can divide it equally; allocate it all to one or two items, or somewhere in between. You can also add some of your own items at the bottom and allocate funds for them.

QUALITY OF LIFE Survey

Quality of life is one of the attributes residents like the most about their neighbourhood. It often involves intangible – but vitally important – characteristics of our community such as people and neighbourhoods, charm, hospitality and a feeling of safety. It also involves such things as opportunities for recreation; arts and culture; access to services; walkability; and a healthy environment.

What is the one thing you would like Council to keep in mind so that decisions don't negatively impact the quality of life in HCM?

What is the best way to inform residents and landowners about what is happening in the community (e.g., programs, services, events, etc.)?

Can our current processes be improved upon?

When residents have free time available, what do you think they wish was available here to do that they have been unable to find that could feasibly and realistically be added?

What role do you think the Council of Head, Clara & Maria should play in making this available?

How can Council foster, support and celebrate HCM's diversity such that all citizens are included and active participants in the community?

Is this the role of Council?

There are some groups of people that are often excluded from traditional community engagement opportunities such as public meetings and access via electronic means. How can we engage the diverse populations in our community and ensure that everyone has a voice?

How can we reach all individuals in our community?
